Football Thanks And a Review of Star's Pictures

Editor The Star: On behalf of the 1972 High School Bobcats and the coaching staff I would like to express our most sincere appreciation for the coverage you provided the football program during the past season.

I know many extra hours of hard work were put into this effort by the entire staff. The Star staff should feel proud of a job well done.

Without a doubt The Star provides the best local coverage of any paper in this state. We feel such coverage benefits our high school athletic program greatly. A sincere Thank You.

Hope, Ark.

The credit goes to Managing Editor George S. Smith, D. E. (Gene) Allen, and Mrs. Rebecca Lasenby. My contribution was in the past. Beginning in 1936 I put The Star into the picture business in a big way, starting with a 4x5 Speed Graphic camera—today The Star and its staffers have 20 cameras (the company bought two latest model Minoltas only last week).

Until the late 1940s we had to send our sports and other pictures off to commercial engravers to convert them into zinc printing plates—first to Harper Standard Engraving, Dallas, finally to Peerless Engraving, Little Rock. It was a tedious business rushing through negatives and prints to get pictures aboard a bus—and then a tense wait to see whether the return bus would bring as the plates in time for the press the day after the game. Frequently it didn't.

Fairchild perfected the electronic engraving machine, and our bus-catching days were over. The $410 Fairchild ScanAgravator turned out a 4-column plastic printing plate in 20 minutes. Pod Rogers shot a Polaroid picture at a community meeting in McCaskill at 1 p.m. and we had it rolling on the press at 3. That's what modern cameras and electronics will do.

We no longer use Polaroids, 35mm. negatives being more versatile, allowing big enlargements with sharp detail. This change was a "natural" when we went to offset printing, for today's pictures are printed through a 100-line screen, compared to 85 lines for the electronic process, and 65 lines for the metropolitan letterpress papers.

It was in 1939, I believe, when I shot one of Arkansas' first "available light" pictures of a football game, Hope vs. Jonesboro, here—meaning the action picture was made without flash.

I had started my personal collection of German Contax cameras and an F 1.5 lens turned the trick. But the films of 1939 were slow by today's standards. Even with the world's fastest lens I had to resort to "doctoring" the film. The night before the game I broke the seal on the film cartridge I was to use and closed it up in a coffee can with a vial of mercury. Mercury fumes greatly increase film speed, but only temporarily. The film was removed from the can just before the game and shot within an hour.

Those were tough days. But I was lucky. What started off as a personal hobby for the newspaper paid off when we switched to offset printing, which is entirely a photographic process. We were able to convert to the new process without hiring an outside consultant and carrying all our old employees into the new venture.

Happiness is Christmas music

Music is as much a part of Christmas as colored lights and tinsel. The "Happy Sounds of Christmas" will be heard when the Hope High School and Junior High bands present their annual winter concert. A high school band member, above, rehearses a special Christmas number to be presented in concert. (See article at right and other photo on next page.)

U.S. throws support to VN's Thieu

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer

PARIS AP — The United States today threw its support behind the Christmas peace package proposed by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and accused North Vietnam of using "high pressure" tactics in an attempt to impose an incomplete peace settlement.

As the United States presented its view at the semi-public peace talks, the North Vietnamese announced that Le Duc Tho, who has been negotiating with Henry A. Kissinger, was returning shortly to Hanoi.

The North Vietnamese gave no exact date for the departure of the Politburo member. Tho's decision to leave indicated that in Hanoi's view there was nothing left to discuss with Kissinger for the time being.

Tho and Kissinger broke off their talks Wednesday without announcing any agreement and Kissinger flew back to Washington to report to President Nixon. Kissinger said he and Tho would keep in touch by message.

Henry Isham, representing the United States at the weekly session, threw U.S. support behind the Thieu package for the first time.

It was not immediately clear how this move would tie into the Kissinger-Tho talks on a cease-fire agreement. The United States had avoided official comment on Thieu's own proposal for a cease-fire, but American officials said privately the South Vietnamese plan was clearly unacceptable to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. Both rejected it.

Isham told the Communists it was futile for them to continue clamoring for signature of the cease-fire agreement drafted by Kissinger and Tho in October.

"In our country, the high pressure salesman who tries to obtain immediate signature of an incomplete contract only succeeds in arousing suspicion about the transaction," Isham declared.

South Vietnamese delegate Pham Dong Lam put before the conference the proposals made by Thieu in a speech last Tuesday. They call for a cease-fire, release of military prisoners, withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces from South Vietnam and Vietnamese-only negotiations on South Vietnam's political future.

Hanoi and the Viet Cong rejected the package within hours of Thieu's speech, and until today the U.S. government refrained from commenting on them. But Isham told the Communists they offered the opportunity for "a reasonable dialogue" and asked: "Are you prepared to examine these proposals objectively and to engage in serious discussion of them?"

School bands to preform Friday

The Hope Junior and Senior High School bands will present their annual winter concert on Friday, Dec. 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the City Hall auditorium. A wide variety of music will be presented including traditional Christmas music.

A special feature of the concert will be the performance by the Hope High School percussion ensemble of a work written by the director of the Hope Junior High band, Byron Holt. The work, entitled "Dirge", utilizes 11 players on different percussion instruments.

The public is invited to attend the concert. There will be no admission charge.

Astronauts are preparing to come home

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Eugene A. Cernan stepped off the moon today, leaving in lunar sand perhaps the last footprint of the generation which first challenged space. Exploration by the Apollos ended as it began, "with peace and hope for all mankind."

"As I take these last steps from the surface for some time into the future to come, I'd just like to record that America's challenge of today has forged man's destiny of tomorrow," Cernan said moments before entering the Apollo 17 landing ship.

Then he added: "And as we leave the moon and Taurus-Littrow we leave as we came, and, God willing, we shall return, with peace and hope for all mankind."

Turning, Cernan then followed his crewmate, Harrison H. Schmitt up the ladder into the cabin of their craft Challenger. There they rested after preparing to blast off the lunar surface in the late afternoon and rejoin the third man of Apollo 17, Ronald E. Evans. He has been orbiting the moon in the command ship America since Monday's lunar landing.

The climb of Schmitt and Cernan from the lunar surface ended a historic decade of exploration which began May 25, 1961, with a challenge to the nation by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Apollo's last surface exploration was the program's most ambitious and successful. Cernan and Schmitt, the 11th and 12th men to walk the moon, spent more time on the surface—a total of 23 hours, five minutes; made the longest single excursion in time, seven hours, 37 minutes; and covered the most distance in three excursions, a total of more than 22 miles.

They collected more than 200 pounds of moon rock and soil, including samples of intriguing orange dust never before seen on the moon. The astronauts erected an atomic-powered science station which is already sending data to earth and explored types of lunar formations never before visited.

Cernan, who had whooped and hollered with joy earlier in the day, ended the exploration with ceremony, conscious, as he said before the flight, that his final moments would live in history.

He paid tribute to young people everywhere and said that Schmitt had picked up a moon rock which was a fused mixture of "fragments of all sizes and shapes, and even colors that have grown together and ... sort of living together in a very peaceful manner."

"When we return this rock," he said, "we'd like to share a piece of this with so many of the countries throughout the world" as a symbol "that we can live in peace and harmony in the future."

Because of Apollo, he said, "the door is now cracked—but the promise of that future lies in the young people, not just in America, but the young people all over the world, learning to live and to work together."

Schmitt said the "young people rock" carried with it the good wishes "not only for the new year coming up, but also for themselves, their countries and all mankind in the future." He referred specifically to 70 youths visiting U.S. space operation as part of an international tour.

Cernan also expressed thanks to "the thousands of people in the aerospace industry" who he said made Apollo 17 possible. He also referred to God and said "if He's listening, I'd like to thank him too."

Truman losing ground

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry S. Truman has lost some ground in his fight for life and his daughter says each setback is taking a toll on the former president's weakened heart.

The 88-year-old Truman remained in serious condition today at Research Hospital and Medical Center where he was admitted nine days ago suffering from lung congestion.

Dr. Wallace Graham, Truman's personal physician reported Wednesday afternoon that Truman was "weaker...and he is beginning to show signs of renal impairment and early pulmonary fluid collection."

Later Wednesday, Graham said, "his weakness and lessened responsiveness remain the same as noted earlier."

Margaret Truman Daniel, the 33rd president's daughter, talked with newsmen Wednesday and said she was less optimistic than earlier in the week.

U.S. wins controversial U.N. fund fight

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — After a hard fight in the U.N. General Assembly, the United States today had the world organization's promise that it won't have to pay more than 25 per cent of the regular U.N. budget in a year or two.

The assembly brushed aside last-ditch Soviet opposition and voted 81-27 late Wednesday to place a 25 per cent ceiling "as soon as practicable" on annual individual assessments levied against the member nations. The United States now pays 31.52 per cent of the total.

"You can't compel a great power to pay if it doesn't want to pay," Jamil Baroudy of Saudi Arabia told the assembly. "If you can't get what you want, settle for what you can get."

The United States fared better in the assembly than it had earlier in the budgetary committee. The committee approved the resolution on Dec. 1 by a vote of 67-30 with 32 abstentions. But 14 countries that abstained or were absent in the committee voting sided with the United States in the assembly.

The United States is paying almost $64 million of the $203 million U.N. budget this year. It would have paid about $13 million less at the 25 per cent rate. The soonest it can get that rate is 1974, when a new assessment scale for all members will go into effect.

Sen. Gale McGee, a Wyoming Democrat on the U.S. delegation, told the assembly its decision would "strengthen the United Nations." On behalf of President Nixon and as a member of the loyal opposition, he expressed "deep appreciation for what this body has done today for the United Nations."

Congress had voted to appropriate no more than a 25 per cent assessment in 1974 no matter what the assembly might do, but McGee said no national legislature could determine U.N. assessments, all it could do was "vote whether to default or not."

A 25 per cent ceiling has been a stated American objective since 1946. The 1970 Henry Cabot Lodge Commission on the United Nations revived the idea, and congressmen angered by the ouster of Nationalist China seized on it.

U.S. diplomats pushed the proposal at the United Nations, in Washington and abroad. They argued that the world organization should not be overly dependent on any one country. They promised if they got the cut, the United States would continue to make big voluntary contributions to the extra-budgetary U.N. economic and social programs.

John Harsh:

Plugging agency's highway proposal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The chairman of the state Highway Commission plugged the agency's proposed $416 million highway bond issue Wednesday, calling it a sound approach to roadbuilding.

John Harsh of Magnolia also told the Arkansas Legislative Council that a two-cent increase in the motor fuel tax to finance the issue was an "equitable" financing plan.

Harsh and Maurice Smith of Birdeye, another commission member, declined to say after the meeting with the council whether support for the bond issue was waning. However, Harsh said he was satisfied with the reception he received before the council.

Smith said that although Gov. Dale Bumpers had not indicated whether he would support the proposal, he was still hopeful the governor would, since his backing is critical to passage. Bumpers has said he has detected "no significant public support" for the bond issue.

The commissioners said the commission would stand behind the bond issue despite several alternate plans that have been suggested since the bond proposal was revealed last month.

"I haven't seen anything better," Smith said. "But if ours doesn't work, I've got an open mind."

Harsh told the council that $4.5 billion would be needed to meet Arkansas' 20-year highway needs, but that all that would be available from present sources was $2.7 billion, leaving a $1.8 billion deficit that the bond issue would help offset.

Harsh told the legislators he appreciated "that all of you realize that we do have a need," but he said he realized that "it doesn't meet everyone's needs or please everyone."

During a slide presentation detailing the program for the council, Al Johnson of the Highway Department staff said the commission believed the gasoline tax increase was the most equitable method of financing the bonds because the tax would be paid by the persons who would benefit from the new highways.

Highway Director Ward Goodman said it was anticipated that the bonds could be sold at an interest rate of less than 5 per cent. He said Mississippi recently sold bonds at 4.75 per cent.

Asked by Rep. Thomas Sparks of Fordyce if the commission had held hearings in connection with the bond proposal to determine what the people wanted, Harsh said hearings had been held in conjunction with a highway needs study, but none was conducted relating directly to the bond issue.

Hard decisions face Nixon concerning VN peace talks

By LEWIS GULICK

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger's return with a Vietnam pact still uncompleted apparently presents President Nixon today with some hard choices on how to reach a peace agreement.

Nixon arranged a morning meeting with his much-traveled adviser, who returned shortly before midnight Wednesday from nine days of arduous bargaining in Paris with Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger had no comment upon arriving at Andrews Air Force Base beyond telling newsmen he hopes to meet with them sometime after reporting to the President.

The White House left open the possibility that Kissinger might journey once more to South Vietnam to try to line up a reluctant President Nguyen Van Thieu on the proposed cease-fire accord.

Kissinger also could return to Paris at some point, according to a terse announcement issued here and by Kissinger in Paris after a final six-hour session with Tho ended in the usual cordial handshakes.

As the presidential aide put it, he and Tho "will remain in contact through messages, and we will then decide whether a further meeting is necessary and when."

The White House remained silent on the causes for delay in a Vietnam settlement which had seemed imminent with Kissinger's Oct. 26 "peace is at hand" statement. A high administration official cautioned against predicting how soon an accord might be reached.

From the brief public statements and other sources, however, it appears that Nixon's options include:

—Trying to wrap up a peace deal on the basis of what Kissinger and Tho already have negotiated, with a U.S. signing in mind whether or not Thieu's objections are overcome.

—Sending another special mission to Saigon to try to persuade Thieu, who has been putting up stiff objections to the nine-point draft settlement.

A. Miller is pulling away from Broyle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miners for Democracy reported its candidate, Arnold Miller, solidly in the lead today over United Mine Workers president W. A. "Tony" Boyle in the union's government supervised election.

Miller's camp said its observers in the all-night vote counting by Labor Department officials reported 31,345 for Miller, to 26,145 for Boyle.

The vote count so far totals nearly half the estimated 130,000 votes from 1,300 union locals in 25 states.

The latest report widened Miller's edge over Boyle to 55 per cent of the votes counted so far in the court-ordered election.

RAP:

I'm 15 and love my mother a lot. Some of the kids at school say they hate their old lady or old man and wish their parents were dead. That makes me cringe because my Dad died just before my graduation from 8th grade. It might sound corny, and I'm not all that religious but I believed in a way that my Dad watched me receive my diploma.

It bothers me the way the kids cut their parents down to nothing. Nobody deserves to be wished dead. I only wish my father were alive!

I guess I'm trying to say that what really counts is to love your parents any way you know how. I hope I'm just lucky enough to grow up and take after my mother. She does the work of two—and she's really great. —L.V.M.

Make a 'gifted' sweatshirt

There's still plenty of time to make gifted sweatshirts, adding fringe and trimming in holiday designs.

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

'Tis the week before Christmas—and you're still looking for quick-and-easy gift ideas? Hurry—stitch up a batch of gifted sweatshirts, bright with fringe and trimmings, to sparkle at all kinds of informal holiday gatherings.

A sweater-shirt of Creslan acrylic fiber is a nifty gift all by itself—soft, warm, colorful, and available in all sizes from pint to large economy. With imaginative trims, it becomes something very special.

The designers of the wreath shown on the tree-trimmer's shirt suggest you allow an hour to make this design, but anyone who's nimble with the thimble should be able to trim the time considerably.

All you need, besides the sweatshirt, is 1½ yards of green tassel fringe, and ¼ yard of red ball fringe. Then mark a circle, 6½" diameter, on the center front of the shirt. Pin fringe with heading touching circle, and hand-stitch at both edges of the heading. (If you'd rather use a sewing machine, use an open zigzag stitch.) Add the second row of fringe, overlapping half the first row. Then clip the balls from their heading, and hand-stitch in clusters to the wreath.

Using the same materials, you can make a Christmas tree just as quickly and easily. Change the green fringe to gold, embroider eyes, nose and mouth, and you have a lion with a fuzzy yellow mane. Additional trims can make zodiac signs, monograms, happy faces, peace and ecology symbols.

The raglan-sleeved sweater shifts offer interesting possibilities, too. Make a snugly bedjacket by cutting a raglan-sleeve shirt up the center front, snipping off the ribbing at the lower edge, and finishing raw edges with a ruffle of crochet lace, stitched into a binding of fold-over braid. Or cut off the sleeves along the raglan seam line, and stitch knitted trim around neck and armholes for a quick layered-look top.

The possibilities are endless, the tricks are very quick-and-easy, and the investment modest, both in time and money. So let a batch of gifted sweatshirts solve all these leftover gift problems!

Padres are definitely staying in San Diego

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The words of Buzie Bavasi four months ago don't appear to bother him today.

"I'm here to put an end to all the scare stories," the San Diego Padres' president and part owner told a sportswriters' luncheon Aug. 13. "The Padres definitely are staying in San Diego."

Today Bavasi was preparing for a meeting in New York Friday with Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn while rumors of the Padres' imminent transfer to Washington, D.C. under their present ownership buzzed about the baseball world.

The same rumors circulated last year when some of Washington's leading citizens were fanning about the move of the baseball Senators to Texas. Though 1971 attendance was the lowest in the Padres' three-year history, Bavasi and majority owner C. Arnold Smith decided to keep the team here.

Attendance improved this year, from 549,085 to a club record of 644,272, but still well below Bavasi's stated breakeven figure of 800,000. For the fourth straight year the Padres finished last in the National League West, although they unveiled several promising rookies and their first genuine star, slugging first baseman

Nate Colbert.

"They want to stay and we want to see them stay," Mayor Pete Wilson said Wednesday after a 45-minute meeting with Bavasi. "It's really a question of community support."

The San Diego Union says Smith, a multimillionaire banker and friend of President Nixon, has lost $2.8 million in interest on the $10 million loan he used to buy the new franchise in 1968.

"The Padres were an expensive proposition," Wilson told reporters. "They had to pay a great deal for the club and they are having to pay a great deal to finance the original investment."

At the end of the season Bavasi was still insisting that the Padres would stay here. But since then he has dropped hints of a change of heart by indicating that management was unhappy about advertising panels on either side of the stadium scoreboard in "direct conflict with our radio broadcast sponsors."

The signal seemed clear enough. Wilson said he has offered to solve the advertising problem, but an aide to the mayor noted, "Financial problems of the Padres go far, far beyond the costs of advertising panels."

A lot hinges on football players' knees

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

DALLAS, Tex. — (NEA) — The knee, if you'll forgive the clashing metaphor, is the Achilles heel of the professional football player. It's a hinge which just wasn't made to withstand the collisions of fast-moving big humans. Thus operations on the knee, with the advance of medical technology, have become as commonplace in sports as the dissection of a frog in Biology I.

But the bang on the knee involves more than physical ordeal. Danny Reeves knew this as he stood on the sideline in front of the Dallas Cowboys bench one recent game and saw Jimmy Johnson of the San Francisco 49ers collapse in front of him.

Danny, who serves as a combination coach, spare quarterback and part-time halfback for the Cowboys, has had eight operations on his knees. He had an idea what Johnson was going through as he writhed on the ground, clutching his left knee while from across the field the 49ers' trainer, Linc Kimura, and team doctor, Lloyd Millburn, rushed to deliver first aid.

Besides Danny, a whole covey of Cowboys clustered around Johnson, which was unusual, because football players, especially those from the other team, are studiously insensitive to injury on the field of combat. They're aware that at any time it could be one of them who's stretched out on the artificial turf in what could be his last involvement with this precarious game of football. So they ignore the fallen man, not because they're calloused but because it's less traumatic.

However, Johnson drew attention because he's somebody special. "I've known him since I was a senior in college," said Bob Lilly, the admired all-pro tackle of the Cowboys, who was on the edge of the crowd. "He's a very popular player. The other guys respect him for his ability and his character. It was natural for us to be concerned."

Now Danny Reeves had never been formally introduced to Johnson. But he remembered how it had been when he tore up his knee back in 1968 in St. Louis.

"I was on the wrong side of the field, too, like Jimmy," recalled Reeves. "Nobody had any feeling for me. Jimmy's one of the great pros. I knew what he was going through. I could see him just squeezing his hands in pain. You want something to grab on to."

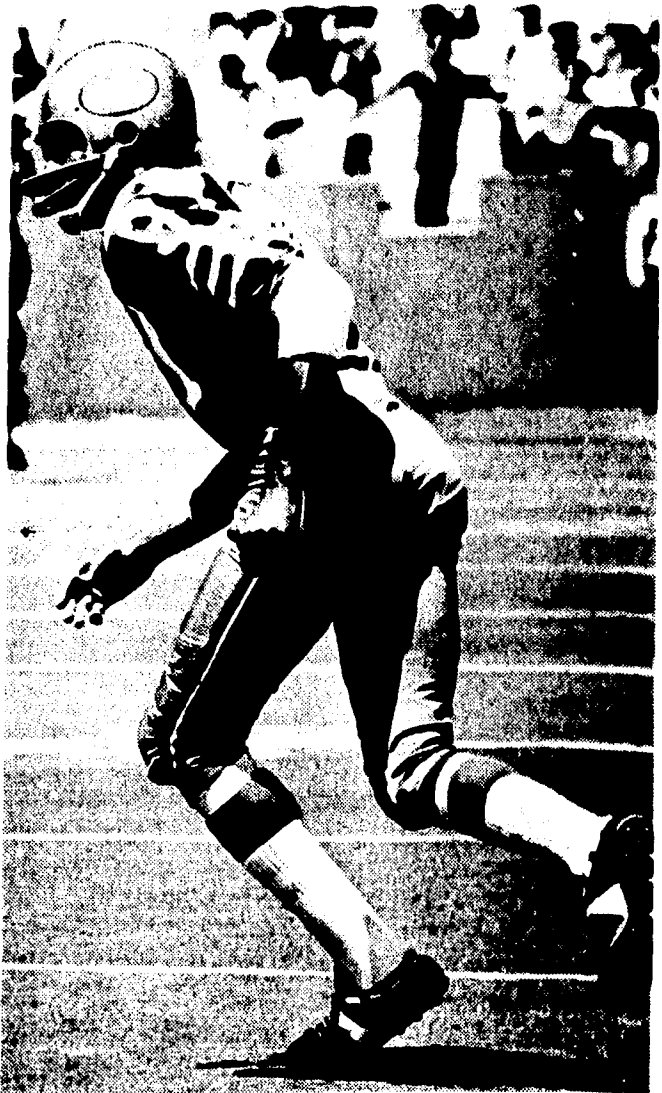

Danny, leaning over him, said solicitously to Johnson. "Why don't you just grab on to my ankles?"

Johnson grimaced and nodded and the fingers of his hands wrapped around Reeves' ankle so tightly the knuckles stood out in relief.

"Man, it hurts so bad when you get a knee," mused Danny sympathetically. "It feels like you're on fire. Like somebody got a hot poker and just stuck it in there."

"I've had a broken collar bone. But it's nothing like a knee. The pain is unbelievable."

Yet one recalls vividly that many players with knee injuries which required operations have quietly hobbled off the field on their own power. Even Gale Sayers, whose career went into its ultimate tailspin when Kormit Alexander crashed him from the side just as he planted his right knee in the turf, limped to the sidelines before going into surgery later that same night. Danny himself walked to the dressing room when he first hurt his knee.

Jimmy Johnson
Knee-deep in pain.

"It cools off after the initial sensation," he explains. "Then the muscles get so tight you don't have any looseness. Once they've iced it down, the pain is all gone but the damage remains."

Artificial turf is a possible contributor to the extra rash of knee injuries. On regular turf, most knee injuries come when a man is hit just as the leg is planted and rigid. On artificial turf, underlaid with asphalt and unyielding, a man lands on the hard surface and gets hurt. Jerry Levas, the San Diego receiver, was lost for the season when he came down on a knee on the artificial turf of Candlestick Park. In Dallas' spanking new stadium, Johnson, too, was hurt when he landed on his knee after making a tackle.

In his case, however, there was redemption. After the initial searing pain had passed, the doctor's diagnosis was quite hopeful. Jimmy only had a knee sprain.

Meanwhile, it was nice to have Reeves' ankle to clutch in his agony, a moment of concern and consideration that's not often noted in the heat of competition.

Iowa-Georgia Tech preparing for Liberty Bowl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — After the snow and raw cold back home, Iowa State football players found Memphis only slightly chilly Wednesday as they deplaned at International Airport.

The Cyclones will meet Georgia Tech Monday night in the 14th annual Liberty Bowl at Memphis Memorial Stadium.

The Engineers arrive today. The Iowa team held a workout at Memphis State University's Kennedy Complex Wednesday night and scheduled a drill at 10:30 this morning. Snow and sub-freezing temperatures at Ames, Iowa, have cut into the team's practice.

"We haven't been able to get outside much in the last six weeks and it's really hampered our timing," said assistant coach Jackie Sherrill, whose team lost three games after getting the Liberty Bowl bid.

Speaking of the Iowa winters, defensive end standout Merv Krakau said, "I'm basically used to the cold but it's still bad ... It kind of gives you a bad attitude about practice today. You sometimes lose concentration you're so busy trying to keep warm."

Blanda not sensitive about being 'old'

OAKLAND (AP) — George Blanda sounded surprised and a little pleased to learn that he is now the oldest player to play major league professional football in modern times.

The Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio, said Wednesday its records show that Blanda, who will be three months past his 48th birthday when he kicks for the Oakland Raiders Sunday against the Chicago Bears, has displaced Ben Agajanian as the greybeard of the record books.

"No, I'm not sensitive about being called an old man," said Blanda. "I'm kind of immune to that. I've been the oldest player on every team (Chicago, Houston and Oakland) I've played with since 1966."

"I feel it's a privilege and that I'm fortunate to still be able to play and to contribute." Agajanian was 46, plus two months and 11 days when he played his final game Nov. 8, 1964, with the San Diego Chargers. He also was a kicking specialist.

The Hall of Fame lists the oldest player ever as John Nease, who was 46 years and a little over four months when he played his final professional football game early in the 1921 NFL season with the Columbus Panhandlers.

Razorbaks crush Geo. Tech

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbaks streaked to their fifth victory of the season here Wednesday night by crushing Georgia State 70-30.

The visitors could not find a solution to Arkansas' zone defense and the Razorbaks surged into a commanding 35-13 halftime lead. Georgia State got only four free-throw attempts in the game.

Guard Martin Terry again paced the Razorbaks assault with 23 points, followed by Dean Tolson with 16 and Jody Bass with 10. Walker Atrice scored 12 points for Georgia State.

Dolphins nearing end of perfect season

NEW YORK (AP) — It's no accident that the Miami Dolphins are the only unbeaten team in the National Football League this season—and within one victory of completing a perfect season.

League statistics released today show that the Dolphins, 13-0, dominate the league's offensive and defensive categories. Miami is No. 1 in total offense, with 4,473 yards; No. 1 in rushing, with 2,781 yards, and No. 1 in total defense, with a yield of 3,040 yards.

The Dolphins also are No. 1 in the American Football Conference in rushing defense, having allowed 1,417 yards on the ground. The only categories in which they do not lead the league or conference are pass defense, where they are second in the AFC, and passing offense, in which they are eighth in the AFC.

Golf Classic and accepting money, these men have automatically surrendered their amateur status."

The tournament referred to is an annual event matching two-man teams from the baseball major leagues and the National Football League. The seventh annual event is scheduled Feb. 24 in Puerto Rico.

The tournament offers $30,000 in prize money. Players may accept or spurn it or, as many do, give it to their favorite charity. If they sign a paper disclaiming prize money, they can remain amateurs.

Most of the football and baseball stars affected pop bottles of champagne and dance jigs when they break 100. An exception is John Brodie, the San Francisco quarterback, who plays in California tournaments and could probably qualify for the pro tour if he worked at it. He is always careful not to take money.

Seaver's father, Charles, was an outstanding amateur and Walker Cup teammate of the late Bob Jones. But Tom, who has a 10 handicap, is a pro under the USGA standards.

"It doesn't matter," said Tom. "I seldom play any more."

Commodores shade Rebels by 2

Butch van Breda Kolff would have loved it.

Jan, the 6-foot-7 son of the former collegiate and professional coach, threw in three straight 25-footers that played a major part in the seventh straight victory for the unbeaten Vanderbilt Commodores in college basketball Wednesday night.

Jan's trio of baskets early in the second half erased a four-point Mississippi lead and the Commodores went on to shade the Rebels 56-57.

"It was a helluva win," Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner said. "I don't mind telling you I was scared to death of Ole Miss, particularly considering that this was our fourth game in six days. I was just thankful that we were able to keep our poise."

The seventh victory in a row for the 13th-ranked Commodores in the Associated Press poll was a highlight of a night that also saw ninth-ranked Pennsylvania pull out a 54-53 squeaker over its Philadelphia city rival, St. Joseph's, on a 10-foot jumper by sophomore Ron Haigler as time ran out.

In other games involving teams in the AP Top Twenty, No. 8 Southwestern Louisiana beat Mercer 111-104, No. 17 Brigham Young whipped Oklahoma State 96-60 and No. 20 Kansas State tripped Iowa 68-62.

Elsewhere it was Navy over Temple 66-58, Penn State over Duquesne 59-56, Boston College over St. Bonaventure 78-65, Harvard over Boston U. 102-82, Illinois over Iowa State 74-60, and New Mexico over New Mexico State 68-67.

Roanoke makes it to top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Roanoke, which finished tied for 20th last year in the college division basketball poll, has made it all the way to the top this year.

The Salem, Va. college was awarded four first-place votes and accumulated 190 points to rank No. 1 in the season's first weekly Associated Press poll, announced Wednesday.

Berra on Who's-Not-Who list

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra was fit to be tied when he opened his Christmas mail and found that he had been declared a professional by the U. S. Golf Association.

"I'm gonna give 'em hell," fumed the baseball manager of the New York Mets.

Dick Butkus, 6-foot-3, 245-pound linebacker of the Chicago Bears football team, took the same news more graciously.

"Shucks," said the awesome NFL defense man, "I wasn't planning on going on the pro tour anyhow. I don't want to leave Chicago." Butkus says he usually shoots in the low 120s when he is on the stick.

Berra and Butkus were just two of the some 150 names of football and baseball celebrities included on the USGA's latest list of Who's-Not-Who in amateur golf.

Others were Hank Aaron of the Braves, who is nearing Babe Ruth's all-time home run record; Johnny Bench, Cincinnati's MVP now recovering from a lung operation; Bob Gibson of the Cardinals and Tom Seaver of the Mets, to name a few of the baseball stars personal non grata among golfing purists.

The roll call included, besides Butkus, such big-time football heroes as Deacon Jones of San Diego, Merlin Olsen of Los Angeles and Lance Alworth of Dallas.

They were informed by official notice that if they play any golf tournaments in the future, it will have to be against Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and associates.

"This is a formality we conduct every year," explained Frank Hannigan, associate director of the USGA. "In playing in the American Airlines

Knicks take easy triumph

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This is a tale of two National Basketball Association cities—New York and Atlanta.
The first city provided a happy ending for the New York Knicks while the second was just the opposite.
After taking an easy 114-93 triumph over the Hawks in New York Tuesday, the Knicks were beaten 121-120 in Atlanta Wednesday night.
In beating the Knicks the second night, the Hawks actually held a Pistol to their heads—“Pistol” Pete Maravich. The Atlanta star scored 16 more points than he did the night before, totaling 37 Wednesday night.

Included among his game-leading total was the winning field goal with two seconds left.
In the other NBA games, the Los Angeles Lakers beat the Philadelphia 76ers 128-99; the Golden State Warriors trimmed the Detroit Pistons 110-107; the Boston Celtics stopped the Phoenix Suns 105-100, and the Milwaukee Bucks nipped the Seattle SuperSonics 104-103 in overtime.
In the American Basketball

Association, it was: Memphis 104, New York 99 and Kentucky 119 and Carolina 112.
In the Atlanta-New York contest, the lead changed hands 11 times in the final period until the Knicks took a 120-119 lead with 42 seconds left on Dick Barnett's two free throws.
The Knicks had possession of the ball with nine seconds remaining when Bill Bradley took a shot and missed. The Hawks gained possession of the ball for Maravich's game-winning shot.
Gail Goodrich scored 31 points and Jerry West added 24 as the Lakers overpowered hapless Philadelphia. The 76ers' record dropped to 3-29 in the Atlantic Division, the worst in the NBA.

John Havlicek scored eight points in the late part of the fourth quarter to help Boston win its sixth straight game. It was the first time that Boston had won in Phoenix in seven games.
Golden State outscored Detroit 19-4 in a five-minute span during the third and fourth periods to overcome a 78-76 deficit and beat the Pistons.
Milwaukee blew an 18-point lead in the third quarter but held on to nip Seattle. A free throw by Bob Dandridge was the deciding margin, giving the Bucks a 104-101 lead with 36 seconds left in the overtime period.

Too little too late...

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It was too little and too late for the Carolina Cougars and the New York Nets Wednesday night.
The Kentucky Colonels roared to a 42-30 first-quarter bulge and then withstood a late rally by Carolina to defeat the Cougars 119-112 in American Basketball Association action.
In the only other game, the Memphis Tams took an 80-77 lead into the final period and let New York get within four points with 1:21 left before handing the Nets a 104-98 setback.

It was the Colonels' ninth consecutive triumph and lifted them within one-half game of the pace-setting Cougars in the Eastern Division. Iseel finished with 29 points and 18 rebounds, Gilmore had 22 points and 17 rebounds and Louie Dampier had 20 points—he hit on nine of 10 shots—and eight assists.

Gene Little was high for Carolina with 22.
Memphis managed only 15 points in the fourth period but the Nets scored just 21 and fell six short. Johnny Neumann and Lee Davis paced the winners with 26 points apiece while rookie Brian Taylor of the Nets was high for the game with 23.

Sabres-Buffaloe game ends in melee

National Basketball Association scores: Los Angeles 128, Philadelphia 99; Golden State 110, Detroit 107; Atlanta 121, New York 120; Milwaukee 104, Seattle 103 in overtime and Boston 105, Phoenix 100.
With Dan Issel and Artis Gilmore leading the way, Kentucky canned an amazing 78 per cent of its shots in the first-quarter surge. The Cougars cut the margin to 50-51 late in the second period but the Colonels pulled away again and led 96-68 late in the third quarter.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Butch Deadmarsh of the Buffalo Sabres never got into the game. Still he got socked for a $100 game misconduct penalty.
This hockey rarity occurred at the tailend of Buffalo's 7-3 victory over the Boston Bruins in a National Hockey League game Wednesday night as the Sabres kept intact their record of not having lost on home ice this season. The streak now is at 16, 13 victories and three ties.
With 90 seconds left and Buffalo's victory assured, the Boston players rushed the Buffalo bench. The melee, climax of a fight-filled game, resulted in penalties to three players from each team. In addition to Deadmarsh, Larry Hillman of Buffalo and Boston's Bobby Orr and Terry O'Reilly were slapped with misconducts.
“It's one way to get on the ice,” commented the 22-year-old Deadmarsh, a reserve left winger who seldom gets into a game.
Montreal and California skated to a 2-2 tie while the New York Rangers shaded Toronto 4-3. In other NHL games Pittsburgh routed the New York Islanders 5-1, Atlanta blanked Detroit 2-0, Minnesota whacked Philadelphia 7-3 and Los Angeles turned back Chicago 3-1.

In the World Hockey Association it was the New York Raiders over Quebec 9-1, Alberta over Houston 3-2, Philadelphia over Winnipeg 7-4 and Chicago over New England 6-3.
A third period goal on a breakaway by Hillard Graves gave California its tie with Montreal and cut the first place Canadiens' lead in the NHL East to just one point over the New York Rangers.
The Rangers beat the Maple Leafs on Bill Fairbairn's goal with 20 seconds left. “We were lucky to win this one,” said Ranger Coach Emile Francis. “They took over completely after spotting us a 3-0 lead.”
Curt Bennett's two goals and the strong goaltending of rookie Dan Bouchard gave Atlanta its shutout over the Red Wings. It was Bouchard's first NHL shutout.

The North Stars made it nine straight on home ice in beating the Flyers. Three first period goals, two of them by Danny Grant, got the North Stars off to a flying start.
“Up and down, up and down all night,” said rookie goalie Michel Belhumeur of the Flyers. “I figured they had taken a lot of shots in the first period, but I couldn't believe it when they announced 3-1.”
Altogether the North Stars made 53 shots on goals. Belhumeur was replaced by Doug Favell after the second period. “I figured he had worked enough,” said Philadelphia Coach Fred Shero.
The Kings whipped the Black Hawks on two goals by Mike Corrigan and one by Butch Goring to snap Chicago's four game winning streak. The defeat cut Chicago's lead over the North Stars to one point in the NHL West.
The Penguins fired 55 shots on goal and Syl Apps scored three times and assisted on three others as Pittsburgh overcame the Islanders. Don Blackburn got the Islanders' lone goal with just four seconds left in the game.

“This was our best game of the season. It had everything.”
Included among the “everything” that New York Raider Coach Camille Henry was talking about were three goals by Bobby Sheehan; that helped provide a 9-1 World Hockey Association victory over the Quebec Nordiques Wednesday night.
Also, there were a couple of big fights at Madison Square Garden that finished the free-swinging contest on a brawling note.
“These fights really excited our fans,” said Henry. “Some of them tried to get at the Quebec bench but were repulsed by Garden officials.”

PERSONAL FINANCE

By CARLTON SMITH

"Stay out of metal buildings during a thunderstorm." True or false? American folklore is rich in prescriptions for protecting life, limb and property during thunder-and-lightning storms, tornadoes and other forms of atmospheric violence. Do you stay in your car, or get out of the car? Are you safer near a wall, or away from the walls? Folklore doesn't always agree—or speak the truth.

If you want looking for some top experts in this field, you might well find yourself talking to GAB—the General Adjustment Bureau.

To handle insurance adjustments in the wake of disasters and catastrophes, it maintains a staff of more than 3,000 trained adjusters and specialists. A GAB crisis squad of 400 is on constant alert, ready to fly to any part of the country. GAB "catastrophe teams" move into hurricane areas even before the storm strikes.

Here are some of the facts—not folklore—offered by GAB that can help minimize damage and injury during violent storms:

Travel is always dangerous. It's best to remain indoors. But if you're caught out in a car during an electrical storm, stay there. It's one of your safer places because metal conducts electricity.

For the same reason, take shelter if you can in a large metal building. Brick and wood structures, as nonconductors of electricity, receive the most damage.

If no such shelter is available, seek low ground and stay down—in a ditch, if one is handy. Or crouch in the open, away from and lower than nearby objects. Stay away from places likely to attract lightning—hilltops, lone trees or isolated buildings. (A clump of trees is relatively safe.)

If you're in your own home, it's probably safe—but stay away from open windows, doors, fireplaces, sinks, and plug-in appliances.

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — For Steve Shagan it's been a painful experience but rewarding in its own way.

Shagan has come up the hard way through the Hollywood salt mines. He did menial things around town for a long time. Gradually he fought his way up and became a producer. He did the Tarzan series and some of the better movies for TV.

But he really wanted to write and produce movies. He wrote a script. People liked it. But getting them to make it was something else again. The project went through several hands and Shagan was disappointed time after time.

Then Jack Lemmon read his script and finally it all came together. You'll see the movie, "Save the Tiger," next spring. Shagan produced it and Lemmon stars in it.

"The best things I've done," Lemmon says, "have been painful."

Lemmon considers it the best work he's done since "Days of Wine and Roses." But even after it was made the pain continued. The studio wanted to cut it. After everybody else was satisfied, Shagan fought for it but Lemmon had more muscle and he joined the fight. He said he wouldn't promote it or do any TV talk shows unless the version that he and Shagan liked was the final version.

They won. In all the time — several years — between his first draft and the final filming, Shagan says he wrote a book, a novel based on the same screenplay to preserve his sanity. "Save the Tiger" is now out as a novel.

He says he found the novel harder to write. In a screenplay he just had to indicate the scene. In the book he had to describe it.

When he was typing his final draft of the book his typewriter broke. He asked his friend, novelist Harold Robbins, for advice on what kind to buy. Robbins said don't buy any — and loaned him his.

So there have been some pleasant moments among the painful ones.

FAST AND LOOS
Anita Loos was back in Hollywood, the town where she once worked so successfully. For 18 years she was a top screenwriter here, often working with Irving Thalberg.

This time she's here with Helen Hayes to promote the book the two ladies wrote about New York. "Twice Over Lightly." She isn't here to stay, unfortunately — we could use her.

"I don't miss Hollywood," she says. "I don't enjoy today's movies and wouldn't know how to write for them. And I don't find much of interest in today's Broadway stage, either. And I never did develop the habit of watching TV. I've discovered — or rediscovered — the joy of reading books."

She and Miss Hayes wrote their book about discovering — or rediscovering — New York. They tramped over the city and wrote about what they saw.

"We had to leave a lot out," Miss Loos says. "It was getting too big."

One story they left out, which you may enjoy, was a remark made to them by Pia Lindstrom, Ingrid Bergman's daughter. Pia grew up living all around Europe and told Helen and Anita that she found the young people of her generation sitting at the sidewalk cafes of Paris and Rome and Stockholm and talking about what was happening in New York.

So she decided to go to New York, where the action was.

Miss Loos, incidentally, is now working with Carol Channing on a new version of her old hit, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

"Carol recorded some of the original version on Caedmon Records," Anita says, "and found it so intriguing that she felt a new version would be successful. We're doing it now and it'll be called 'Lorelei.'"

THOUGHTS

"But now, hear my speech, O Job, and listen to all my words. Behold, I open my mouth; the tongue in my mouth speaks."—Job 33:1, 2.

True opinions can prevail only if the facts to which they refer are known; if they are not known, false ideas are just as effective as true ones, if not a little more effective.—Walter Lippmann, American journalist.

"Fear not, you beasts of the field, for the pastures of the wilderness are great; the tree bears its fruit, the fig tree and vine give their full yield."—Joel 2:22.

Prosperity is only an instrument to be used, not a deity to be worshiped.—Calvin Coolidge, 30th U.S. president.

PO trying to keep with yuletide rush

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — It looks almost like a war room at the Pentagon with maps lining the walls, telephones ringing and men moving colored pins to chart progress.

However, it isn't a military operation—it's the U.S. Postal Service trying to keep up with Christmas mail.

The special mail control center operates from regional headquarters in Memphis, coordinating movement of mail in the 11-state Southern postal region.

The holiday mail deluge is expected to crest Dec. 18 with an estimated 1,900,000,000 pieces of mail to be handled in the Southern region, said T. J.

Coleman, assistant regional postmaster general for mail processing.

The nerve center, which is staffed 12 hours a day by a four-man team, got its first major test Monday when sleet storms in the South shut down some airports and endangered highway travel.

"Here, in the control center, we were able to pinpoint the soft spots in the mail movement system, identify the mail volume backups and select alternate plans to keep the mail moving," Coleman said.

The center's staff includes transportation, logistics and mail processing experts.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We are indebted to Terence Reese, the great English expert, for today's hand. Reese explains that you are playing in an ordinary duplicate game against two ladies you have never seen before. Your opening no-trump bid is normal and no one can blame your partner for taking you right to a grand slam with his 12 high-card points.

Unfortunately for your peace of mind, it turns out that you must locate the queen of hearts if you are going to make your contract. One way to do this is to run off your diamonds to see what may be discarded, to continue by cashing spades and clubs and finally to play hearts and pray for divine guidance.

Reese recommends an entirely different procedure. He suggests that you win the club in your hand and lead the jack of spades!

West will follow suit and you will observe his reaction. Rise with dummy's ace, return to your hand with a diamond and lead the jack of hearts!

If West reacts in exactly the same manner and plays low, you go up with dummy's ace and finesse against East.

If the reaction has been different, you take the finesse against him and chalk up the grand slam.

People in the News

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger has been named "Kraut Character of the Year" by the National Kraut Packers Association.

Calling Kissinger a "colorful character in many ways," the group said "his name is constantly being associated with world leaders as well as a long string of lovely ladies."

The kraut packers group, holding its annual convention here, said Wednesday it will send Kissinger a one-year supply of sauerkraut.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cathleen Douglas, wife of U.S. Justice William O. Douglas, has passed the District of Columbia bar examination and lost a bet with her husband.

The Committee on Admissions of the D.C. Court of Appeals announced Wednesday that Mrs. Douglas, 29, was one of 567 who passed the exams and qualified to practice law in the district.

Douglas told the Washington Star-News that his wife had been "sure she had flunked."

"But I bet her $100 to her $1 that she would pass," he added.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Police said today an African has been arrested for the hit-and-run accident that sent heart surgeon Christiaan Barnard and his pregnant wife, Barbara, to the hospital.

The couple, expecting their second child, were reported in satisfactory condition and Mrs. Barnard's pregnancy safe. They were knocked down Wednesday and were treated for chest and back injuries at Groote Schuur Hospital, where Barnard five years ago this month made the first heart transplant.

A police spokesman said earlier it was "just a coincidence" that the car that allegedly knocked the Barnards' down was registered in the doctor's home town, Beaufort West, 200 miles east of Cape Town.

Barnard announced last week that he would never return there after the local newspaper published criticism of his plan to run for parliament as an anti-government candidate.

Boyleing it down

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

We often overlook the power of things near us that we don't appreciate. The Gulf Stream is a good example. All the rivers on earth, if multiplied more than 20 times, couldn't exceed its splendid outpour of 100 billion tons of water per hour.

To the National Geographic Society we are also indebted for this timely nugget of holiday knowledge: It was President Franklin Pierce who requested the first Christmas tree for the White House in 1856.

Students who wish to study a modern language which is easy to remember might take up one called Taki-taki, a dialect spoken in parts of South America. It has only 340 words. The English language, on the other hand, is currently estimated to have more than 400,000 words.

Quotable notables: "Public acclaim is the reward of scoundrels." — Bertrand Russell.

Is this any consolation to you? I haven't checked these figures out, but one self-proclaimed statistician claims that a man who is 50 years old has worked 6,000 days, slept 5,500 days, walked 600 days, amused himself 4,000 days, spent 1,500 days eating, and has been sick 450 days. But it all adds up to a sense of wonder about what it has all meant.

Household hint: If you place onions in a freezer for about 10 minutes before chopping them, you'll shed fewer tears.

It was Indiana humorist Don Herold who observed, "Work is a form of nervousness."

Texas, Hawaii and Vermont were once independent republics.

Problem: Drinking parents

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
MOUNT KISCO, N.Y. (AP) — "My mother drinks all night and sleeps all day. She knows she has a problem but just won't do anything for herself. I thought by coming here I could help her."

Janet, with long blonde hair framing her round, freckled face, knew that the 12 teenagers grouped around her understood. Each one of them had a parent who is an alcoholic. "But you can't help her. She'll have to hit bottom and find her own way," said Linda, twisting her school ring around her nail-bitten finger. "This meeting is for us. We have to learn about the disease of alcohol and learn about ourselves." The teenagers belonged to a group called Alateen, the youth counterpart of Al-Anon, the organization of family and friends of an alcoholic, which works closely with Alcoholics Anonymous. More than 1,000 Alateen groups in the United States and Canada have been meeting since Alateen's inception in 1967.

The AA estimates there are about nine million alcoholics in the country, whose problems affect more than 46 million family members, including children.

In this suburban New York town, an Alateen group has been meeting for two years. Under the direction of one or two adults, usually Al-Anon members, the youngsters, between the ages of 12 and 20, hold informal rap sessions weekly to discuss not only the difficulties of living with an alcoholic parent, but also those anxieties that afflict all adolescents.

"We try to show the kids that they're powerless over alcohol, they can't fight the bottle, that some of their problems are not always related to the parents' drinking," said Carl, the adult leader whose wife is a member of AA. "By sharing their experiences, they learn to help themselves and to develop into healthy and mature adults." This night, the kids sat around a table in the basement of a local church. They munch on cookies, drank fruit punch and smoked. They call each other by their first names to guard their anonymity. There was Ralph, wearing a Mickey Mouse T-shirt; Barbara, with dangling silver earrings and granny glasses. Most of the kids were still in high school. One blond boy was only 12.

"It's hard to talk to friends who don't have the same problem in their family. Sure, they can sympathize, but no one knows what it's really like," said Agnes, a group member for two years. "This is our home away from home." The Alateen groups start off their meetings with the AA serenity prayer — "God grant me the serenity to accept the things I cannot change, courage to change the things I can, and wisdom to know the difference." They follow the 12 steps of the AA as they apply to them, and close with the Lord's Prayer said with joined hands.

Besides the 12 steps of AA, Alateen has its own set of do's and don'ts and slogans, many spiritual in tone, that it encourages its members to follow. Kids are advised to learn about alcoholism as a family disease, to be honest and forgiving of themselves and others, and to confide in other members of Alateen. The kids often exchange phone numbers for help in a panic situation. Children of alcoholics are cautioned not to argue with an active alcoholic or throw out his liquor. They are told not to judge or criticize the sick person, and not to expect things to get better overnight.

The Alateen slogans, often repeated during a night's meeting are, Live and let live, First things first, Think, Easy does it, Let go and let God, One day at a time, Listen and learn. Some nights the kids talk around a theme — violence, fear, serenity. There's a strict rule that the kids must not talk about their parents, but sometimes it's hard to talk about anything else. There were stories of drunken beatings, nighttime shouting matches, the hostility the kids felt and, most of all, their feelings of loneliness, rejection and despondency.

Relief for farmers is possible

By RANDY SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

Relief may not be forthcoming for Mid-South farmers whose crops remain unharvested in fields of mud and water.

No money is available for emergency relief to bail out the rain-drenched farmers, a spokesman for the Farmers Home Administration said Wednesday in Washington.

Conservative estimates place losses in the Mid-South area of $50 million, with the figure continuing to climb as unseasonably wet weather moves into its third month.

In a 15-county Tennessee area around Madison County in the western section, about 60 per cent of the soybean crop is reported still in the fields and losses are estimated at $30 million, according to Dr. James Farmer of the Agricultural Extension Service at Jackson.

The FHA spokesman said applications for disaster aid have been received from 30 West Tennessee counties, and the State Agricultural Stabilization Service has requested crop damage reports from all 35 Tennessee counties.

In Arkansas, 40 counties have reported severe flooding or excessive rain, and surveys are being conducted to determine the damage extent.

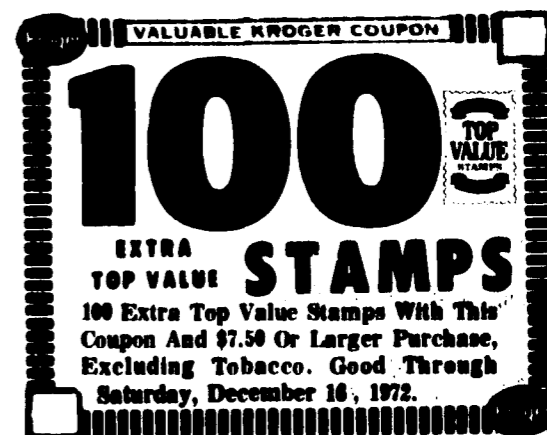

And in Mississippi, reports indicate severe rains are ruining crops and requests for aid are predicted there.

The federal spokesman said the agency has not only run out of funds, but has accumulated a large number of approved applications for which no money is available.
